Course Outline

In Higher Modern Studies pupils study three main areas;

- Political Issues – Democracy in Scotland
- Social Issues – Health and Wealth in the UK
- International Issues: World Powers – The USA

Pupils will also complete a research assignment and report which will account for 27% of their overall grade. Candidates will also undertake a final SQA exam which will be comprised of essay and source based questions on these three areas of study, split over two examination papers. Higher candidates should aim to carry out regular independent research throughout the year – paying specific attention to news and quality newspaper articles which are relevant to the course.

Exam Preparation

As the Higher Modern Studies exam approaches, pupils should carry out as much timed practise of exam questions as possible, as well as increasing the volume of research they complete. Source analysis questions and knowledge questions both require strict time management and pupils should be encouraged to practise under timed conditions. The exam is split between two papers. Paper one is broken up into three sections This question paper has a total mark allocation of 52 marks. This is 47% of the overall marks for the course assessment. Pupils will answer two essay questions worth 20 marks and one extended response question worth 12 marks. Question paper 2 has a total mark allocation of 28 marks. This is 26% of the overall marks for the course assessment. In this paper there are 3 skills based questions.

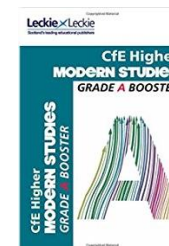

Useful Websites

Higher Modern Studies candidates should use a wide range of websites to help them prepare and develop throughout the course. However, the most valuable way to enhance their knowledge is to regularly research the relevant issues that are in the news currently. Thus websites such as; The BBC, Guardian, Telegraph, Independent, Scotsman or any other quality newspaper will be of great use. Watching television programmes such as Question Time, Newsnight and Sunday Politics will also greatly help their understanding of key issues in Modern Studies.

Useful Textbooks

The following websites sell revision and course notes as well as past papers. We have a sample copy in the department of most Modern Studies textbooks and can offer individual advice on what the best option for each pupil may be.
